Stefanie,

The app has been submitted for review by Apple for distribution. In the meantime, I have included what the final app looks like (screenshots) and granted you beta access so if you download the app via TestFlight today to play around with it. Once you download the app TestFlight and open it, you will see the Trek Long Island app waiting for you to download. You might get an automatic email from Apple Inviting you to accept the invite to test the app.

I did not hear back about the use of Google Calendar or the LCARS displays that I made or if it was okay for me to arrive early to assist on Friday. Any guidance would be appreciated.

Respectfully,
Bryan Carroll

The earliest I can be there is 3:15pm. Does that work? I would imagine there would still be 'set up' going on?

Haha. True -True.

I will be arriving around 3:30pm. I will have two 'Smart TVs' to have the LCARs displays, I was thinking one at Ticket pickup and one at Information Desk downstairs. What are your thoughts? I will also have an available fire stick to put on any TV too. I also printed out 250 QR codes on business cards to give out (the same QR Code that's on the printed schedule) as takeaways.

I guess I need to change my Guest Pass to unofficial staff. haha.

In terms of the Convention App, when I get word that Apple approves it, I will shoot a separate email. The timing is really up to Apple.

Is there anything else I can help with? Throw stuff at me so you're able to enjoy the convention yourself.

- Bryan
