Hey there—

The Apple app will soon get a trivia question mini game to help cure the wait between panels and funny transporter Easter egg because the app sponsor was the transporter room podcast. I also included an update for Jeffrey Combs bio.

Any updates to the android sponsor?

Warmest Regards,

That is super cool!.

The guy who got the iphone one is so tempted to get the other. Thinking if it gets closer and we don't sell it. I might see if I can lower the price of the sponsorship. A little bit to encourage him. But I don't only lower it for him. Privately I o I

I know he is doing a patreon? for the Trek Cruise - so I'm imagining he will do another one that will include his direct Long Island travel and sponsorship - I followed his podcast facebook briefly to get a sense of his humor and get an understanding of the podcast. Never heard of it before the direct TLL sponsorship. Besides name recognition, what added benefits would he gain from the dual app sponsorship? Does Library In-Kind have the resources to advertise at Trek Long Island?

The next round of update(s) will include Tara Polen in the fan sponsor section and other guest announcements. Once the Planning Calendar is resolved; I will push that update too.

Thought about a ticket validator QR Code but thought it would be too much for the check-in-staff and I would need direct access to the google sheet of the purchased tickets so I put that idea on the back burner. It would go green if the pass was validated and red if it wasn't like what happens with eventbrite at other events.

Any corporate sponsors like travel companies or yoga studios or restaurants?

Hopefully, the break out sessions tickets don't cause buyer fatigue.

The new App update is already live so check it out on your son's phone. If you think of something - shoot me an email and I will see if I can add it.

I haven't feeling that he makes good money and is personal life. And he just really loves star trek and wants to help out and check out he has his podcast.

We had another span sponsor also that i'm going to announce tomorrow. I just didn't wanna take away from the sponsorship from tara Yeah, I'll registration staff isn't ready for that yet I o I.

We're going to be announcing special events in an interesting way. It's almost gonna be like a menu where people can check off. What they want to add to their ticket. There's going to be multiple exercise classes with the stars that I'm thinking about putting on one ticket. Then, we're going to have a paint event, a craft program with two of the guests the were on risa and I wanna do something with dan Jeanotte. The only expensive ones will be the Nana and Jeff one. I want to keep the others as smaller. Add ons like forty dollars a pop.

We are also announcing Nicole de Boer soon (shhh). We're probably gonna have her in one of the craft events. While she has never been to risa, her symbiote has I o I

He just retired so there is always a big hoopla and things settle. I vote for putting a polite pin to that. I just did a quick blurb email for Star Trek Comics Publishing so see if I get anything back from them. I just saw your reply to the BCC'd. Thanks for that.

Hopefully, there isn't ticket fatigue. I will look at what Creation does. Maybe Dove for deodorant give-aways like they did at NYCC? With Hero Within reducing their license footprint - I don't imagine they will return. I can see if UberGeek Brewing would be doing Red Shirts again or would want to do something. I can also ask Maui Chop house food truck based out of Rocky Point if they want to be added to the list of food trucks.

Nicole De Boer is a great selection. My favorite Dax. haha. You mentioned Stewart but did his retirement impact booking? Is Stashwick based in NY?

Thank you so much. Any help with sponsorship would be amazing. It sounds like that the federation of beer is interest again. They took a break last year.

Yeah totally stinks about heroes within. I don't like getting the same people every year anyway so let's see what happens.

I recently spoke to k c's pizza and wings. They said that they should have a food truck by that time. They're really good people and very charitable.

I'm excited to have nicole. Do you suppose to come last year but her son was graduating. We're going to see if celia rose gooding wants to come because last year she had to cancel because she was filming.

Last year we had close to 1200 attendees, and that was low because of the economy. The hotel holds two thousand. So obviously that's what i'm aiming for

I am curious what might be the requirements for Paul Giamatti or Tim Russ if he is on the convention circuit.

We are texting via email - haha. Love it.

65,000/1200=54.17 avg. Doable. The signature with ticket promo - was that from signature guarantees or planned signature advance purchases?

Signing off for the night. Good to touch base. Once the announcements are official, it will be 24- 48 hours for upload of the Apple update. Android is coming along nicely.

haha. That's how my mind works. You shared your budget or something similar a few emails ago so I just tried to connect the two because we chatted on it. I have high hopes for this year.
